A LIFE OF COMPASSION ENDURES

HONORING KINDNESS AND POSITIVITY: Ann Renzi Haynes' sister, Jennifer Renzi Kelly; Ann's mother, Joyce Renzi; Ann Renzi Haynes Award recipient Allyson Robinson; and Ann's brother, Eugene R. Renzi.

Award celebrates a legacy of kindness and determination

The Arc Jefferson-St. Lawrence's Allyson Robinson is the inaugural recipient of the Community Foundation's Ann Renzi Haynes Award.

A General Brown High School graduate, Allyson works through the Arc's supportive employment program at its Bradley Street facility, where she plays a vital role in fulfilling Impacto contracts. Her colleagues describe her as a joy to work alongside — always smiling, uplifting others, and approaching every task with pride and positivity. Supervisors praise her strong work ethic, resilience, and ability to inspire those around her.

"Allyson's journey is a testament to resilience, positivity, and personal growth," said Lynn Pietroski, Arc Jefferson-St. Lawrence CEO. "She embodies the very spirit of this award."

The award was established in 2023 by Dr. Eugene and Joyce Renzi and family in memory of Ann Renzi Haynes, who passed away that year at age 61.

Ann was a loving mother, respected professional, and community leader whose kindness and grace left a lasting impression. She worked for Teachers Insurance, now TIAA, before retiring to care for her daughter, who lived with a seizure condition.

Presented annually, the award supports general quality of life for Jefferson County residents with developmental disabilities and special needs. Honorees demonstrate positivity, perseverance, and joy — qualities that defined Ann's life and now shine through Allyson's example.

'Love the River, for Good' features series of donor legacies

This summer, the Community Foundation published a special booklet featuring stories about donors who have left legacies for their communities along the St. Lawrence River. From Cape Vincent to Clayton to Alexandria Bay and points in between, the St. Lawrence River is one of the special places within the area the Foundation serves. In addition to its natural beauty, the Thousand Islands region is home to charitable organizations that enhance the quality of life in many ways. Since 1929, we have been fortunate to work alongside individuals, families, organizations, and businesses committed to the betterment of the region, during their lifetimes and beyond. A few of these stories are presented in "Love the River, for Good." If you didn't receive a copy and would like a copy mailed to you, email our Director of Communications, Ken Eysaman, at ken@nnycf.org.

EDUCATION SPOTLIGHT: AMANDA STICKEL, WATERTOWN

Foundation scholar: Engage the next generation in meaningful community leadership opportunities

Amanda Stickel never forgot the Community Foundation scholarship that helped her attend Jefferson Community College after she graduated from Watertown High School in 2008. Today, she leads her own business in Watertown, Stickel Financial Services, serving clients across the region. She recently established the Amanda Stickel Accounting Scholarship at the Community Foundation to help other local young women who are pursuing careers in accounting. We caught up with Amanda and asked about her experience and the importance of giving back to her community.

How did you learn about the Community Foundation and its many scholarship opportunities? I learned about it initially from my high school English teacher, Mrs. Emily Sprague. As an older adult I learned more about the Community Foundation from its efforts with local organizations and businesses through grant opportunities and seeing them in the community.

AMANDA STICKEL

AGE: 35

HOMETOWN: Watertown

EDUCATION: Watertown High School, 2008; Jefferson Community College, 2010, associate degree, accounting; Franklin University, 2012, bachelor's degree, accounting

FAMILY: Parents: Mark and Daphne Battista; Husband: Greg Stickel; Children: Joshua, Alexandria, and Avalynn Stickel

CAREER: Accountant and CEO, Stickel Financial Services, Watertown; IRS Enrolled Agent

COMMUNITY: Watertown First, Downtown Block Party Series, Family Counseling Services & The Resolution Center

PERSONAL: NNY Women Who Lead; Remarkable Women of the North Country; and NNY Business 20 Under 40 Emerging Leader

How did a Foundation scholarship help you on your educational journey? Not only did it help me financially to support my college journey paying for books, but the process was impactful as well. I remember having to write an essay about how I planned to make an impact in my community, and I remember I wrote about how I planned to open my own accounting business on the Square and support other people with their business journeys. Looking back on the experience is an amazing reflection to see how far I have come. While I do operate my own accounting firm, I do so virtually and not on the Square, but I do various other efforts to make a positive impact on the Square and our local community.

How can we best lead younger generations to be involved in their communities? By inviting them to be involved in our community through boards, apprentice programs, volunteer opportunities, and just including them in discussions to get their input. I believe giving them a platform and respecting them while also encouraging and pushing them in an empowering way will make a huge impact.

The Youth Philanthropy Council of the Northern New York Community Foundation made the following grant awards to local nonprofits during its 2024-25 program year:

Compassionate Care Foundation, Dexter, $10,000 to provide therapies for up to 10 patients during or after treatment. The Foundation facilitates integrative therapies for cancer patients, working alongside traditional medicine to support mind, body, and spirit. Services are provided in partnership with Claxton-Hepburn Medical Center's Richard E. Winter Cancer Center, Samaritan Medical Center's Walker Center for Cancer Care, and Cancer Connects.

Hospice Foundation of Jefferson County, Watertown, $5,000 to support its new Wave Riders of Hope initiative, an adolescent grief support program slated to launch this fall at Watertown High School. Grant funding will support a pilot program and help develop outreach materials for other local schools.

ACT Children's Theatre, Ogdensburg, $4,000 to support licensing fees and script rights, costumes, props, and set materials for upcoming shows. Founded in 2014, it is St. Lawrence County's only nonprofit children's theatre. Stage productions are held in the fall with grades kindergarten through six and in the spring with grades seven through 12.

Children's Home of Jefferson County (CHJC), Watertown, $3,000 to help purchase local produce, workshop materials, and educational resources to deepen the understanding of healthy, sustainable living through its Seed to Supper initiative. CHJC operates the SoZo Teen Center as a safe and supportive drop-in center for youth in grades seven through 12.

Grant funding will help to secure safe, stable sleeping arrangements for individuals and families beginning new chapters in their lives.

HOSPICE FOUNDATION GRANT: Council representatives recently presented a $5,000 Youth Philanthropy Council grant to the Hospice Foundation of Jefferson County to support its new "Wave Riders of Hope" initiative. The Youth Philanthropy Council of the Northern New York Community Foundation's Class of 2024-2025 recently awarded $25,000 in grant funding to five tri-county nonprofit organizations that will support a wide range of community programs and projects.

The Council reviews requests annually from tri-county nonprofits to fund projects or initiatives that positively impact the quality of life in Jefferson, Lewis, and St. Lawrence counties. In addition to researching and recommending grants, Council members visit nonprofit organizations and learn about grant stewardship, community investment, leadership, governance, and nonprofit sustainability.

The Council received 18 funding proposals for this program year with six agencies invited to present requests to the full Council.

Council Chair Hannah Eldridge, a second-year member and 2025 Watertown High School graduate, said the Council had many meaningful applications this year.

"I am impressed and proud of the work that has been done on the Youth Philanthropy Council this year. Each application we received was extremely impactful," Ms. Eldridge said. "Our Council has chosen through deep conversation and careful consideration to grant organizations that will make an exceptional impact on our community."

Council Vice Chair Ella Smith, a third-year member and 2025 Watertown High School graduate, said she and her peers "selected five organizations with the utmost confidence that each of their projects will create a lasting impact and reach the unique needs in the communities they serve."

In addition, Council members in December awarded grant support to five regional nonprofits to strengthen their respective work and missions. The Maple Ridge Center, Lowville, New Beginnings Clothing and Food Outreach, Madrid, the Thousand Islands Arts Center, Clayton, the Thousand Islands Performing Arts Fund, Clayton, and the South Jefferson Rescue Squad, Adams, each received $1,000.

Bequest leaves gift to 'help where need is greatest'

Mary Antonene "Toni" Silliman and her husband, Loron E. Silliman Jr., shared a quiet but powerful commitment to strengthening the place they called home. As longtime Community Foundation donors, they believed deeply in the value of giving to improve the quality of life for their neighbors.

For more than two decades, Toni served as an assistant librarian at Watertown's Knickerbocker School, where she encouraged countless children in their love of reading and learning. Loron, a proud U.S. Army veteran and former vice president of engineering at New York Air Brake, dedicated his professional life to innovation while devoting his personal life to family and community.

Toni and Loron's lives reflected service, humility, and generosity. When Loron passed away in 2020, followed by Toni in 2024, their legacy of care did not end. Through their wills, they each chose to leave enduring gifts to the community they loved. By making their bequests unrestricted, they ensured their support would have the broadest impact, both today and in the years to come.

Earlier this year, when the Foundation received their gifts, their daughter Lori Larson noted how, "It would please my parents knowing their support went to where the need is greatest."

We are profoundly grateful for Toni and Loron's foresight and generosity. Their story is a lasting example of how an unrestricted bequest empowers the Community Foundation to respond to emerging challenges and opportunities, ensuring that legacies of care continue for generations.

Devoted nurse will aid students on paths to become caregivers

Sally M. Marra devoted her professional life to caring for others, guiding patients and families through some of their most difficult moments with compassion and skill. With determination, she pursued a degree later in life, graduating with honors from Jefferson Community College.

Sally began her career at The House of the Good Samaritan in Watertown, where she was known for her warmth and kindness. She continued her work at Spring Hill Regional Hospital in Hudson, Fla., touching the lives of countless patients until her retirement. Her dedication to nursing reflected not only her professionalism but also her deep belief in service, empathy, and the power of care to make a difference. When Sally passed away in May, her family sought a way to honor the values that defined her life. They chose to create the Sally M. Marra Nursing Scholarship at the Community Foundation. By supporting future nursing students, the scholarship will extend Sally's legacy of compassion and commitment, helping others follow the path she so fully embraced.

To join others in helping build the Sally M. Marra Nursing Scholarship, make gifts to the Northern New York Community Foundation, 131 Washington St., Watertown, NY 13601, or access secure online giving at nnycf.org.

CLAYTON OPERA HOUSE MEETS MATCH, BUILDS ENDOWMENT

The Thousand Islands Performing Arts Fund at the Clayton Opera House earlier this summer presented "Ann Hampton Callaway — Finding Beauty" as its 2025 endowment fundraiser.

Proceeds from the show exceeded their goal and will help build TIPAF's endowment fund at the Community Foundation to ensure the organization continues its work and mission for years to come.

The Community Foundation matched $10,000 in gifts to support the fundraiser. With the match, TIPAF added nearly $23,000 to its endowment fund.

The organization established a permanent endowment at the Foundation in 2011 to help plan for its future.

Julie Garnsey, right, Clayton Opera House executive director, presents a $12,737 check to Emily Pfeil, Community Foundation philanthropy associate, for the endowment fund.

Cape Vincent Arts Council invests in future through Community Foundation partnership

For more than 25 years, the Cape Vincent Arts Council has connected residents and visitors with the arts. Now, with the creation of two charitable funds at the Community Foundation, the organization is securing its future while strengthening its mission.

In December, the Dr. William James Grant Fund and the Cape Vincent Arts Council Endowment Fund were established at the Foundation. Both will help sustain annual programs while ensuring long-term stability for the Arts Council.

"The funds ensure we can deliver exciting art and music programs with confidence in our financial future," Arts Council President Liz Brennan said. "We're grateful to all who made this possible."

The Dr. William James Grant Fund was launched with a $57,000 lead gift from the Dr. William James Grant Trust. This restricted fund supports the Thousand Islands International Piano Competition for Young People, founded in 2004 by Dr. Grant and CVAC. Now in its 22nd year, the three-round competition welcomes pianists from around the world to Cape Vincent to perform works by Chopin, Bach, and other masters in a setting overlooking the St. Lawrence River.

The Arts Council Endowment Fund was seeded with a $25,000 grant from The Lily Fund. To help build it, the Community Foundation and The Lily Fund each committed an additional $15,000 to offer a $30,000 matching challenge to inspire community support. Gifts to the endowment will be matched dollar-for-dollar, doubling donors' impact.

By partnering with the Community Foundation to steward these funds, the Arts Council gains a trusted resource to manage charitable giving, grow its capacity, and ensure its programs enrich Cape Vincent for generations.

"The Foundation's support boosts our reputation, attracts new partners, and affirms that the Arts Council is secure in its mission," Mrs. Brennan said. "As these funds grow, so does our ability to bring the arts to our community, sustaining both our cultural vitality and local economy."

New charitable fund will help honor Revolutionary War vets

Jefferson County Legislator and Town of Champion farmer John Peck recently established the Jefferson County Revolutionary War Monument Fund at the Community Foundation to help create a lasting tribute to the area's earliest veterans. The monument will honor Patriot Soldiers of the Revolutionary War who later settled in Jefferson County and its towns, many of whom are buried here.

The effort is part of a larger vision to commemorate the 250th Anniversary of the Declaration of Independence in July 2026. A committee is working toward dedicating the monument in Watertown during the summer of 2026, ensuring future generations remember the sacrifices of these early settlers. More than 350 names of known Patriot Soldiers buried in Jefferson County have been compiled through the efforts of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Sons of the American Revolution, local historical and genealogy societies, and dedicated family researchers.

Mr. Peck's decision to partner with the Foundation ensures gifts for this project will be stewarded locally and used to bring this vision to life. Foundation grant support helps expand childcare capacity in community

Recent Community Foundation grant funding is helping New Day Children's Center welcome more families back into childcare in Watertown.

With $12,500 in support, including $7,500 from the CAR-FRESHNER Corporation Charitable Fund and $2,000 from the Jefferson Economic Development Fund, New Day reopened its long-closed "Waddler Room," serving children ages 12 to 24 months. The funding also helped furnish and equip classrooms with cribs, mealtime chairs, changing tables, teacher workstations, and developmentally appropriate learning materials.

The changes unlock eight new childcare slots, advance infants into a new classroom at 12 months instead of 18, and establish two separate classrooms for 2-year-olds. The result: shorter waiting lists for infant care and tailored spaces that better support early learning.

Childcare access is often a critical barrier for parents returning to work and for local employers seeking staff. By expanding classroom capacity, New Day is helping meet both needs.

"Thanks to grant support from the Community Foundation and the CAR-FRESHNER Corporation Charitable Fund, we were able to purchase furnishings and educational toys for our waddler and toddler classrooms," said Susan Gibson, executive director.

"This project could not have been accomplished without the Community Foundation and CAR-FRESHNER understanding our vision to expand and help more families access childcare. We will be forever grateful."

Grant funding enables new community playground at Theresa Memorial Park

A pair of Community Foundation grants totaling $4,000 recently helped the Theresa Youth Commission equip a new playground at Theresa Memorial Park.

Grant funding includes $2,000 in support from the Wilcox Community Fund for Theresa and $2,000 from the Community Foundation's Micro Grants Program.

The Community Foundation has a long history of funding improvements to public parks and spaces, with grants supporting nearly two-dozen park and playground projects in Jefferson, Lewis, and St. Lawrence counties in recent years.

Theresa Youth Commission President Kristopher Ryder said grant funding from the Foundation helped the project succeed.

"Because of your generous support, this legacy project was made possible for our community," Mr. Ryder said.

"On behalf of the Youth Commission's Playground Committee, thank you for helping with this important effort."

Theresa's new playground includes an area alongside it that features benches, tables and landscaping for the community to enjoy. The project provides a dedicated space for families and youth to engage in outdoor activities, fostering community pride and strengthening the quality of life in Theresa.

The Theresa Youth Commission was established in 2022 to create more opportunities for youth and families and recently became an independent nonprofit organization.

The Youth Commission sought support from the Foundation after it raised the majority of funding it needed through individual donations.

The project is part of a wider revitalization effort that includes restoring tennis and basketball courts, adding walking trails, benches, pavers, trees, and other landscaping.

PARTNERS FOR THE FUTURE

A new home for the ARTS ON THE RIVER

Community Foundation support helps advance Thousand Islands Arts Center capital project

Grant support totaling $250,000 will help the Thousand Islands Arts Center complete its new campus project, which includes construction of a new museum and arts center in the village.

The Foundation will provide a $150,000 grant in support of the Arts Center's capital campaign with an additional $50,000 awarded as the campaign reaches certain benchmarks. An additional $50,000 will be added to TIAC's endowment fund at the Community Foundation.

"The arts center has had a decades-long partnership with the Northern New York Community Foundation, and we share common goals, among them to improve the quality of life for North Country citizens by enriching the art and cultural experiences in the north country," Kathryn B. Elliott, TIAC Board of Trustees chairwoman said. "We are extremely grateful to the Community Foundation for this very generous grant."

Construction began in 2024 on a new building for the Arts Center, also home of the Handweaving Museum.

The $5.1 million project was announced in June of 2023 after $2 million grant funding from New York State was received. The new building site, 321 James St., is directly behind the present Arts Center and was the home of Finders Keepers, a TIAC-affiliated resale store. Construction is expected to be completed in spring 2026.

The project has the potential to be transformational for the arts center and will position it as a hub for the advancement of arts and culture in the region. The Community Foundation grant builds upon its past investment in the Arts Center's work while helping to propel it forward to reach its goal and provide long-term support of its mission through an endowment partnership.

The Thousand Islands Arts Center established a permanent endowment fund at the Community Foundation in 2014 to help plan for its future. Four school districts across Jefferson, Lewis, and St. Lawrence counties were named winners of the Community Foundation's Class of 2025 Scholarship Challenge and earned a share of $5,000 in funding.

Three districts — one in each county the Foundation serves — each received a $1,000 grant and a fourth was awarded the top Scholarship Challenge grant of $2,000.

Lewis County's South Lewis Central School District is the top grant winner with 32 percent of its seniors submitting scholarship applications.

"We appreciate all the work the Community Foundation team put into making this scholarship completion campaign so successful," South Lewis High School Counselor Julie Burmingham said.

Winning school districts receiving a $1,000 grant are: Jefferson County's LaFargeville Central School with 56 percent of its seniors submitting applications; Lewis County's Copenhagen Central School with 50 percent of its seniors submitting applications; and St. Lawrence County's Lisbon Central School with 37 percent of its seniors submitting applications.

Schools selected for grant awards were chosen at random during two Facebook Live events. Grant funding may be used to support a schoolwide initiative or project chosen by each school's senior class officers.

This year's challenge sought to inspire greater participation in the Foundation's scholarship program from the Class of 2025 and give schools a chance to earn grant support for on-campus programs or student-led initiatives.

The Foundation's scholarship program supports graduating seniors pursuing further education — whether at an accredited college, university, technical, or trade school.

The Scholarship Challenge was open to all tri-county schools. To be eligible, schools had to achieve at least 25 percent participation from their senior class in submitting scholarship applications by the March 15 deadline.

Throughout the challenge, the Foundation reported progress at the end of each week on its Facebook and Instagram channels.

A record 24 percent, or 604 of the 2,472 members of the Class of 2025 from the three counties applied for scholarship support this year.

MICHAEL ROUKOUS LINEMAN SCHOLAR

Jon A. Hirschey is the inaugural recipient of the Community Foundation's Michael J. Roukous Lineman Scholarship. A veteran New York State corrections officer, Jon began a four-month program at the Kingston, N.Y.-based Lineman Institute of the North East in September.

The pre-apprentice electrical lineman training program prepares students for real-world utility and power line work through a combination of classroom instruction and hands-on field training.

"I am grateful for this support from the Roukous family and the Community Foundation," Jon said. "Becoming a lineman is a career that will enable me to financially support my family, allow me to be in a safer working environment, and be rewarding."

The Michael J. Roukous Lineman Scholarship was established at the Community Foundation after Michael's unexpected passing in September 2024 in South Carolina. A Northern New York native and General Brown High School and SUNY Potsdam graduate, Michael fulfilled his lifelong dream to become a lineman at age 29, graduating from the North American Lineman Training Center in Tennessee in August 2024. To honor his life and generous heart, his family hopes the scholarship in his memory will enable future linemen to fulfill their dreams like Michael. Jon is pictured with Michael's mother, Michelle Roukous.

Next Step Education Program expands learning opportunities

The Community Foundation recently launched the Next Step Education Program to help adult learners and working professionals advance their education and careers. It continues the Foundation's tradition of investing in local people and their potential. Open to residents of Jefferson, Lewis, and St. Lawrence counties, awards of up to $2,000 may support tuition, books, and course-related expenses.

Next Step provides flexible support for many pathways, including: College or university degrees; Trade and technical training in high-demand fields; Micro-credentials and professional certifications; Career-skill courses, such as Microsoft Office; Professional licensing (CDL, industry certifications); and Programs at local BOCES campuses.

The program is designed for those who have paused their education, are seeking new career paths, or want to strengthen their career skills to stay competitive.

Applications are accepted year-round and reviewed every 30 days. Learn more and apply: nnycf.org/scholarships/next-step or email Mary Perrine, maryp@nnycf.org or Tara Hess, tara@nnycf.org.

Herring College Memorial Trust: A family legacy for education

For nearly half a century, the Herring College Memorial Scholarship has opened doors to higher education for students in Jefferson and Lewis counties. As a Community Foundation supporting organization, it has awarded more than $4.5 million in scholarships since 1978.

The fund traces its roots to Rodman native William P. Herring, an influential figure in Northern New York's paper industry during the late 1800s. Hoping to leave a lasting impact on the region, he worked to establish opportunities for future generations. In 1915, just months before his death, the New York State Legislature created "Herring College" in Watertown. While Herring envisioned a new campus, resources were never sufficient to build it, and the college remained simply a legal entity for more than 60 years.

His daughter, Pauline H. Dillenback, helped

William Prosser Herring

Pauline Herring Dillenback

sustain her father's vision. At her passing in 1971, at age 103, she left most of her estate to preserve the Herring College legacy, ensuring that her family's philanthropic spirit would endure.

In 1978, the courts determined the most practical way to honor Mr. Herring's original intent was to maintain the Herring College Memorial Trust as a supporting organization to the then Watertown Foundation. Through this relationship, scholarships would be awarded annually to those seeking college-level education in the "chemical or mechanical arts."

Since then, the fund has awarded scholarships to students pursuing studies in math, science, engineering, and related fields while a portion of the annual amount also supports community projects consistent with the activities of a college located in Watertown.

Today, the Herring College Memorial Trust provides $100,000 annually for scholarships and community efforts. In 2024 alone, 48 students received tuition assistance through the fund.

Thanks to the foresight of the Herring and Dillenback families, this legacy continues to transform lives across Northern New York, proof of how one family's charitable vision can strengthen a region for generations.

Judith Ann Converse gave her life to service, family, and community. Born in Potsdam in 1958 to Mary Abel and C. Robert Converse Sr., Judy graduated from Parishville-Hopkinton Central School and earned an accounting degree from Canton A.T.C. She began her career with a local CPA firm and later became office manager at Seaway Timber Harvesting, where her dedication and strong relationships made her a valuable team member. At just 18, Judy broke barriers as the first female member of the Hopkinton-Ft. Jackson Fire Department and among the first women firefighters in St. Lawrence County. Judy cherished her family, enjoying close bonds with her siblings, years with her life companion Bernard A. Smith, and the joy of being an aunt. DOUGLAS S. BRODIE 1933-2025

Douglas S. Brodie's love for his family, faith, and community showed in countless ways. He championed many causes while sharing his gifts with a wide range of organizations throughout his life of 91 years, including the Community Foundation. Doug served two terms on the Foundation's Board of Directors from 1999 to 2009. When he passed away in February, the region lost an advocate for many meaningful causes. Born in Le Roy, N.Y., a son to Mary and Gordon Brodie, he graduated from Le Roy High School and earned a bachelor's degree at Cornell University. Doug married Mary Jane Mancuso McElroy in 1977. Together, they raised three daughters and a son and celebrated 33 years of marriage before Mary Jane passed away in 2010. A career in banking brought him to Lewis County where he worked for National Bank of Northern New York in Lowville. After a merger with Key Bank, Doug was named regional manager in Watertown. In 1991, he was promoted to president of the northern region and later appointed district administrator of the North Country, a position he held until he retired in 1994. Throughout his life he remained active in his community and was especially fond of many local charities and organizations, dedicating his time in service as a board member and volunteer. Doug also helped mentor many young people as a youth sports league coach and strong supporter of Lowville Academy's athletic programs. We express our heartfelt sympathy to Doug's family and friends as we mourn his loss and celebrate his life and legacy. We are grateful for Doug's friendship, service, and community leadership.

Shawn M. Baker

Shawn M. Baker believed in people. As a teacher, coach, and longtime high school principal, he poured more than 30 years into guiding young men and women, leaving a memorable mark on thousands of North Country students. A proud North Sider, Shawn graduated from Immaculate Heart Central in 1971, where he was a standout three-sport athlete and later an IHC Hall of Fame inductee. After earning a degree in physical education from Ithaca College, he began teaching at the Union Academy at Belleville, where his classroom and coaching shaped minds and character. He later earned a master's degree in educational administration at St. Lawrence University. By 1984, he was principal, a role he held for 23 years at Belleville Henderson Central School. His leadership was steady and his encouragement constant. Shawn's greatest joy was his family. With his wife, JoAnn, he shared 45 years of marriage, raising a son and daughter and building countless friendships rooted in loyalty, laughter, and love of community. He never forgot his Irish heritage or his North Side roots and was widely involved in his community, volunteering for several organizations that mattered most to him. When Shawn passed away unexpectedly in February, his family knew the best way to honor him was to keep his commitment to students alive. The Shawn M. Baker Memorial Scholarship at the Community Foundation now carries forward his lifelong belief in the power of education. We extend our deepest sympathies to Shawn's wife, children, and extended family as we celebrate a life of service that continues to inspire.

Bruce Wayne Daugherty

Service was the defining thread of Bruce W. Daugherty's life. For 20 years as a U.S. Army noncommissioned officer and 22 years as a Catholic deacon, he led with humility, faith, and devotion to others. Born in 1952 in Hastings, Neb., Bruce joined the Army in 1972 and retired as a Sergeant First Class in 1992. Along the way, he earned a bachelor's degree from Columbia College and a master's in counseling from SUNY Oswego. His service continued beyond the military, working as an adult protective worker for Jefferson County and later as a chaplain with New York State Corrections. In 1975, Bruce married Elizabeth Yanaitis, beginning 50 years of marriage rooted in love, faith, and family. Together, they raised a son and daughter who were his greatest source of joy. Ordained as a Catholic deacon in 2003, Bruce dedicated the next two decades to ministry, guiding others with compassion and steadfast faith. Though raised in the Midwest, Bruce made the North Country his true home, giving generously of his time and resources to causes close to his heart. To honor his legacy, Bruce's family established the Deacon Bruce W. Daugherty Memorial Fund at the Community Foundation. It will continue his life's mission — helping others grow, thrive, and find hope. We extend our heartfelt sympathies to Bruce's wife, children, and extended family and friends as we celebrate a life that will continue to inspire for generations.

Frederick D. Belcher

Frederick D. Belcher carried the North Country with him throughout his life. Born in Watertown in 1938, he was forever proud of his hometown and his Watertown High School Class of 1956. That pride led him to help create the WHS Class of 1956 Scholarship at the Community Foundation, an enduring source of opportunity for local students. After graduating from Clarkson University with a mechanical engineering degree, Fred served as a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers officer. After he was honorably discharged as a captain, he built a distinguished 32-year career with Pratt & Whitney Aircraft. Though his work and family took him to Connecticut and later Charlotte, N.C., his loyalty to Watertown never wavered. Fred and his wife, Rosemarie, shared nearly 64 years of marriage and raised two daughters. Giving back was central to his life, and he found special joy in working with classmates to grow the scholarship fund. When Fred passed away in February, his family fittingly designated memorial gifts to the scholarship. We are grateful for Fred's generosity, loyalty, and friendship, and for a legacy that will continue to help North Country students long into the future.

Liinve honored with Foundation's 'Spirit of Philanthropy Award'

Generous supporter of many local nonprofits

Community Foundation Board of Directors Chair Cheryl R. Steckly, left, and Spirit of Philanthropy Award recipient Mart Liinve.

The Community Foundation's Spirit of Philanthropy Award was presented this summer to longtime community philanthropist Mart Liinve in recognition of his years of generous and thoughtful work on behalf of many local causes and organizations.

The Spirit of Philanthropy Award was established in 2010. The honor is given periodically to recognize and pay tribute to individuals or organizations whose achievements embody a commitment toward helping and inspiring others through the spirit of giving.

Mr. Liinve has been a supporter and fundholder of the Community Foundation for many years and was instrumental in the creation of the Northern New York Philanthropy Center, which opened as the home of the Foundation in 2017. He has also generously supported the Youth Philanthropy Council and many other community organizations.

"Mart symbolizes community philanthropy and what it means to make a difference. When he believes in something, he commits fully, and helps inspire others to believe too," said Rande Richardson, Community Foundation executive director.

Mr. Liinve is well known for his many acts of kindness and his strong belief in giving back. His philosophy and the multitude of acts that affirm his commitment embody the values that the Spirit of Philanthropy Award was created to honor.

The award was presented during the Community Foundation's annual meeting reception in June at the Jefferson County Historical Society's historic Paddock Mansion.

Previous Spirit of Philanthropy Award recipients include Mary H. Macsherry, the Clayton Community Band, Sherman Elementary School, and Alex C. Velto.

New scholarship honors life and legacy of skilled tradesman, technical education advocate

Throughout his lifetime, Phillip L. Fay was a strong believer in the value of technical education. As a Watertown High School student in the early 1980s, he enrolled in Jeff-Lewis BOCES for electrical and plumbing, training that laid the foundation for a long and rewarding career. Phil worked for the City of Watertown before joining Watertown International Airport, where his dedication and expertise earned recognition from the FAA for his perfect maintenance score.

Phil never truly retired. Whether troubleshooting for a neighbor, helping a friend, or lending his skills to family, he was always willing to share what he knew. He built a life centered on hard work, service, and love of family. A devoted husband to Janet and proud father to daughters Amber and Autumn, he cherished time with those he loved most and lived out his belief that contributing your skills makes a stronger community.

When Phil passed away in November 2024 at age 60, his family wanted to honor the values that defined his life. They chose to create the Phillip L. Fay Memorial Scholarship at the Community Foundation.

The scholarship will annually support graduating high school seniors or adult learners pursuing electrical or plumbing studies in a trade or technical program. In this way, Phil's passion for hands-on careers will continue to open doors for future generations.

What led you to an accounting education and how has that background benefited you in your career today? I never knew what I wanted to do in high school, even though they push that question and various projects throughout the high school years. I planned to only do half days during my junior and senior year of high school because I was already in advance classes and had enough credits, but my guidance counselor strongly encouraged me to take elective courses to fill my schedule and get ahead for college, so I chose an introductory accounting class with Mrs. Robin Boomhower. I absolutely loved that class, everything clicked for me, and I continued with it the next year for Accounting 101 at JCC. This is when I met Professor Linda Dening and followed through to earn a bachelor's degree and eventually start my own accounting firm. Professor Dening was a huge inspiration and made a big impact on my education, character, and career. I love the relationships I build with other business owners and the impact we make working together.

What inspired you to establish the Amanda Stickel Accounting Scholarship? I am at the stage in my life where I am ready to start creating a personal legacy. I have always very much appreciated the experience and the financial impact of earning a Community Foundation scholarship. I also have experienced how difficult it can be as a woman in business to be taken seriously, so being able to help a woman with her education in an empowering way that gives them one less thing to worry about is something that I wanted to support. We need more people in the accounting industry who truly have the educational foundation that is typically required to support business owners with their finances and taxes, so I thought that being able to offer this scholarship would support an increase in people interested in pursuing this career.

What would you tell high school students who are now considering college and career options? Don't be afraid to go for what makes you happy and don't be afraid to change your mind. You won't know what you enjoy doing until you try so many different things, so try the different courses and clubs your high school offers. If you look up to someone and what they do, start a conversation with them and see if you can shadow them for a day or two. Don't feel like you must do any of this alone, there are so many support options and no one successful does anything by themselves. Most of all, don't give up, keep going forward; you are worth it.

Northern New York Community Foundation

Their story is our story.

Since 1929, the Northern New York Community Foundation has been a place where life stories are told and have a permanent home in the fabric of our region. We are grateful to all who entrust their legacies to us in an enduring way. During the past year, the following individuals remembered their community through their will or other legacy planning; their families chose to name the Community Foundation for public memorial tributes, including establishing a fund in their memory; or a memorial fund was transferred to the care and stewardship of the Community Foundation.
